Our City comment & discussion

Propaganda of Falshoods Endeavors to Stay Tourists
California
Bound.

WE have before us several articles clipped from a Denver newspaper. These articles are supposed to cover news of violent earthquakes reported as happening on July 22 in Southern California.

A flare banner and extra editions were used to furnish the Denver residents with news of the reported catastrophe.

One of the articles commences with the statement that "Twenty-three cities are shaken and buildings shattered—terrified residents flee homes in night to escape death by falling debris." The account then goes on to describe a state of terror in California, which would cause the whole world to shudder in the reading.

EVEN our own city, Glendale, was named among the twenty-three unfortunate cities.

If these articles were true in any respect we would not comment on the write up in question, but as the happening was so grossly exaggerated we cannot help but comment on it.

Accompanying the articles was a letter from the Denver resident in which we find the following:

"How is this for a sensational write up? Don't suppose Los Angeles paid us any greater tribute? There is a terrible rivalry between the two cities—you see Denver wants to hold all the tourists bound for there."

If all who read the articles in question accepted them as did this reader, the harm would be negligible but this was not true for there is no doubt but that a great many tourists bound for California either stayed in Denver or faced about and returned to their homes.

PEOPLE look on earthquakes with horror, not recognizing that the slight tremors we sometimes have here, do considerably less damage than wind rain or snow storms which are ordinary events in their life.

We are not surprised to learn that Denver is anxious to keep the tourists bound for California and they are justified in using all legitimate means to keep them. By furnishing a sensational story of an event which was of small consequence, they have been unfair.

Unfair competition, regardless of whether it concerns business or cities is difficult to meet. This Denver propaganda was probably carried on in other cities in a like manner and in some manner should be done by us to some manner offset the harm done.

THE thought comes to us that if each one of us would take it upon him or herself in letters to eastern friends, to tell them of the falsity of the reports circulated, a great many people would be reached.

We do not wonder that other cities are beginning to worry over the fact that California is the ultimate goal for a large number of their citizens. A false propaganda against us will prove only a temporary preventative.

NOTHING can keep the individual away from California if he has already turned his face this way. We have so many natural benefits to offer, not found elsewhere, that the attraction is too strong to withstand.

If the threatened coal strike should happen another additional reason will be forced to their attention.

Those individuals who are forced to suffer for lack of coal which they have money to buy will do well to use this money to buy a ticket to Southern California where coal will not be needed.

GREECE APPEALS TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

$909,343.00 Building Is August Total at Noon Today

$515,139

OVER THAT OF AUG. '22

Growth Stands at $6,643,343, or $338,000 Over Last Year

LARGE INCREASE DUE

Total for 1923 May Reach $10,000,000 at the Present Rate

Almost a million! Building permits for the month of August up to noon today reached the grand total of $909,343.

Which is "going some"—for August, 1922, had $394,204 in permits.

The difference in the valuation of permits in August, 1922 and 1923 is a trifling amount of $515,139.

If the building activity of Glendale is slowing up the figures of the building department do not show it. It is generally understood that "figures do not lie."

Thus far the total for the year amounts to $6,643,343—which is "going some more," in view of the fact that during the entire year of 1922 the permits reached $6,305,971, which is $337,343 less than this year's present total.

And 1923 has still four months to run. What will the total for the year be—$10,000,000?

The daily average for permits in August was $30,311.

"We're hoping to reach the $950,000 mark before night," said "Van," the building superintendent.

"It is indeed wonderful the way the permits came in during the past few days. It looks like a $10,000,000 year to me."

"We're sure going strong," yelled Fred, the fellow who takes your spare change over the building department counter. "You simply can't hold this little burg back. It's as exciting as a good poker game."

The permits issued during the past twenty-four hours are as follows:

Thomas R. Dempsey, 1651 Grand View, garage, Mr. Stietels, contractor, $ 725

A. O. Whalley, 121 South Jackson, addition, 300

Lehigh Investment company, 523 West Dryden, 5 rooms and garage, 2,850

LUTHERAN CHURCH IS MOVING TODAY

The little plaster covered Lutheran church at the corner of Harvard and Maryland is today making a journey to the site of the new church on Kenwood just back of the Central Christian church. In order to get it onto Harvard street a good deal of trimming of parkway trees had to be done. This makes the second building in that block that has been moved within a week to make room for commercial development.

COUNCIL ACTS ON PETITION

Increasing Traffic Makes Action One of Safety First

COST $3.00 PER FOOT

Entire Street to Be Illuminated at Night Hereafter

Two-light ornamental lighting standards will be constructed along the entire length of Central avenue, according to action taken by the Glendale city council last night. The original plan of the council was to place two-light standards on this street south of Wilson, while north of that point one-light standards were to be placed. The action of the council in this matter was changed last night by the appearance before that body of several prominent property owners on Central avenue.

A. T. Cowan, spokesman for this delegation, said: "I am representing the citizens on Central, north of Wilson and those living in the northwest section. Two or three months ago we asked for a two-light standard. I understand there were not sufficient names on that petition. This week Mr. Deiterich informed me that a one-light standard is planned for that street north of Wilson."

"We are asking that the two-light standards be continued to the north end of Central avenue. There are over 1500 homes, containing approximately 6,000 people, which are served by Central. Located west of Central there is a small city."

"We are appealing for the safety of these people. Actual count showed that about 900 automobiles pass along Central every 30 minutes during the evening hours and the traffic is probably as heavy during the remainder of the day. We believe the two-light standards should be continued along the entire street."

Mrs. L. C. Rice, who lives at the corner of Los Feliz and Central avenue, objected to the two-light standards on account of their cost. "I understand these lights will cost about $3.25, and that is too high."

"No lights in Glendale cost $3.25," said Councilman Davis. "This information was given to you by someone who is opposed to the lights."

When questioned on this subject, P. Deiterich, superintendent of the public service department, said: "The two-light standards as proposed will cost about $3 per front foot, while the one-light standard will cost $1.90. The lights on San Fernando road cost $2.70 per foot."

Councilman Horn said: "I wonder if there is not a combination among the lighting standard men and that we are paying fabulous prices for these fixtures. I was shown figures recently along this line that startled me. I hear that standards such as these are being provided for Los Angeles streets at greatly reduced prices."

"Similar lights on San Pedro street," said Mr. Deiterich, "cost $3.60 per foot and on Western avenue cost $3.40 per foot."

"The salesman for this standard," said O. M. Newby, lives in Glendale and I understand that on account of this fact he is securing a reduction of $10 per standard for this city."

"I believe the $3 per front foot for the two-light standard is reasonable," said Mr. Deiterich.

The motion to change from the one-light to the two-light standard was made by Councilman Horn.

$250,000 NEW PALACE OF MOVIES ANNOUNCED FOR EASTSIDE BROADWAY

To Start Construction Within Thirty Days at the Corner of Jackson Street, It Is Declared

EASTERN THEATER MEN TAKE LONG LEASE

Yale General Construction and Sawyer & Bolen Close Negotiations; Plans Completed for Work

Announcement was made today by A. M. Yale, president of the Yale General Construction company and James H. Bolen of Sawyer & Bolen, Glendale realtors, that negotiations have been completed for the immediate erection of a motion picture theater on the corner of East Broadway and Jackson street.

Work will be started within the next thirty days on the new theater which is said to have a seating capacity of one thousand, and to be erected at a cost of $250,000.

The General Construction company announced further that scenic artists have plans near completion for the interior decoration which will be one of the most beautiful and unique of any theater in Southern California.

The plans and specifications for the exterior of the theater have been made and nothing has been overlooked to make the new theater a monument and a tribute to the city of Glendale and its people.

The theater has been leased for a period of ten years to Mr. B. F. Robinson, who has for several years been affiliated with the motion picture industry, and Oscar A. Kantner, who has just come to Glendale from Atlanta, Ga., where he has been identified with the Famous Players Lasky corporation.

Both men have had a long and varied experience in theater management and look favorably upon the theatrical situation in Glendale.

The policy will be first class picture presentation, comedies, melodramas and at all times a diversified program of entertainment. In commenting upon the new project, Messrs. Robinson and Kantner have expressed a great deal of confidence in the future growth of Glendale and the opportunities here for motion picture entertainment of the unusual and correct kind.

720 Quarts of Bootleg Is Poured Into the Gutter

All roads lead to the Glendale city hall at about 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. And there's a reason—

At that particular time a half dozen husky Glendale officers, in their shirt sleeves, enjoyed the unpeakable pleasure of "killing" 720 quarts of sure-enough Japanese wine. The thirty sacks, each containing two dozen bottles of the precious liquor, were carried to the sidewalk and one by one the bottles were opened and the contents emptied into the gutter.

As the operation proceeded the odor became stronger and, naturally, the assemblage grew. Many were the expressions of regret that were heard, and sigh after sigh arose from the onlookers—as well as the coppers—as each succeeding bottle was no more.

The gurgling was almost too much for some of the "drier" members of the party, but by resorting to calling out two companies of the local militia the crew of alcohol "killers" was able to finish its work.

The beverage was formerly owned by Y. Yamamoto of San Jose. When he appeared before Judge Lowe yesterday morning "Yama" pleaded guilty and was fined 500 smacks. The truck, which has been held since the capture, was returned to its owner.

ROME DISPATCHES ARE GUARDED

[By Associated Press]

ROME, Aug. 31.—The Italian cabinet, at a meeting today, found the Greek reply to its ultimatum to be unacceptable, the Stefani agency says. The announcement says that certain decisions were reached at the cabinet council, none of which was disclosed.

Dine at the Egyptian Cafe With Many Visitors Present

The Glendale Rotary club changed their meeting place for the day on Thursday and convened at the Egyptian Village cafe, where they enjoyed an excellent dinner. Twenty of the members were seated at a large table in the center of the main dining room and the remainder of the members and visitors, of which there were a large number, were seated at smaller tables around the room.

Among the visitors were Paul F. Johnson of Pasadena, Otto G. Wilkey of Los Angeles, Sam Stroud of Oakland, L. I. Mulvey of Burbank, Art Peterson of Ontario and Sam Green of Inglewood.

George B. Karr presided in his usual efficient manner and under the leadership of France Henry the community singing was the best ever held by the club.

In the call for reading of communications a letter of thanks was received from the Federal Savings bank, of which C. C. Cooper, a member of the Glendale Rotary club, is president.

Bill Hunter, chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee, gave a report on suggested changes. Secretary Sanders of the Chamber of Commerce announced the Glendale night at the "Way-farer" pageant and invited the members to attend a meeting at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

Rula Downing was appointed as chairman of a committee to prepare information for the Prosperity edition of the Glendale Daily Press. Owen Emery was called on to make a report on business methods. The plan was suggested that once a month a member would explain the methods used in his own business. He then called on George Bentley, Art Diberner, France Henry and Jim Newton to explain business ethics as used in their business. These talks proved very interesting.

REMEMBER BOYS AND GIRLS YOUR PRESS PARTY

COUNCILMAN DAVIS SAYS NOT LEGAL

Suggests Petition for Condemnation for Widening of Thoroughfare

It will be impossible for the Glendale city council to establish a setback line of 10 feet on West Broadway as desired by some of the residents of that street, according to a statement made at the meeting of the council Thursday night by Councilman Davis. This action was asked by the property owners in order that provision might be made for the widening of the street at a later date.

"As much as we would like to do this for you," said Councilman Davis, "we simply can't do it. If we did such a thing it would not stick for it would have no legal weight. The thing for you to do is to bring in a petition asking that the council start condemnation proceedings for this strip. This would automatically stop anyone from building closer than 10 feet to the front property line."

O. M. Newby explained to the board that the residents between Central and Pacific are desirous of having this setback line established, and that those living west of Pacific will probably be so inclined at a later date. He said there is no desire of having the roadway widened at this time, as many of the property owners feel they do not wish to shoulder the expense now, but that they want to provide for the widening of the street at some future date.

"You must remember," said Councilman Horn, "that if condemnation proceedings are started now the work would not be done for between two and a half and three years. By that time many of the present property owners will have sold out."

At this meeting maps of Tracts No. 7277 and No. 7054 were accepted.

Bids for the construction of a storm drain on the west side of the city at the foot of Colorado street were opened and referred to the city engineer.

The continued hearing to set aside Happland park as a commercial district was continued one week.

The matter of establishing a commercial district on six lots at the corner of Adams and Windsor was laid over for one week. Councilman Horn stated as his belief that if one corner at this intersection was declared a commercial district all of the corners should be similarly treated. Mr. Whitaker, who is one of the property owners in the proposed district, assured the council that if this district is established no building costing less than $5,000 will be constructed.

All protests were denied in the opening and widening of Doran street, from Glendale avenue to Adams street.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS CONDEMNED

Two at Grade in Glendale, Others Nearby Marked Dangerous

ELIMINATION SOUGHT

Committee to Take Matter to Railway Commission Finally

Two grade crossings within Glendale on the Southern Pacific—the intersection of the company's tracks with Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard, are slated for removal. These are two of the 23 most dangerous crossings in Southern California presented by the five railroad companies to the grade crossing committee of the Southern California Auto club. Other grade crossings near Glendale scheduled to go are two crossings on Verdugo road on the Eagle Rock line of the Los Angeles Railway company, and the San Fernando road crossing at Burbank on the Southern Pacific line.

The decision to remove these and other grade crossings was made at a meeting at the Automobile club of Southern California on Thursday.

At a conference ten days ago, the railroads were asked to present to the committee the five most dangerous crossings on each of their lines in the order of their importance.

It was planned at that time that from this list the ten most dangerous crossings would be taken, and that plans for bearing the expenses of their removal would then be discussed with an effort to arrive at an amicable settlement. Should this fail, the matter would then be up to the State Railroad Commission for action.

On the list submitted by the railroads to the committee yesterday were:

Union Pacific—Pomona boulevard; Whittier boulevard east of Montebello. Telegraph road, Whittier boulevard at Pico station, Clayton crossing.

Southern Pacific—Los Feliz road, Glendale; Brand boulevard, Glendale; Alhambra Crossing, San Fernando boulevard, west of Burbank; Puente crossing.

Santa Fe—Telegraph road, Soto street, Los Angeles; Santa Anita avenue, Pasadena; Glendora, Azusa.

Pacific Electric—Washington street and Long Beach avenue; Slauson avenue crossing, Florence avenue crossing, American avenue and Willow street.

Los Angeles Railway—Slauson and Mesa, two crossings on Verdugo road on the Eagle Rock line.

It is expected that the expense involved in their removal will average $50,000 each. Those present at yesterday's meeting were Councilman W. J. Sanborn, M. T. Edwards, State Commissioner of Highways, Supervisor P. F. Cogswell, Road Commissioner George Jones, Deputy County Counsel Roy Dowds, F. A. Lorentz, Engineer of Public Utilities; H. R. Pomeroy, Regional Planning Commission; J. R. Hitchcock of the Santa Fe lines; T. H. Williams of the Southern Pacific; W. H. Comstock of the Union Pacific; George Kuhrt, Los Angeles Railway; D. W. Pontus, Pacific Electric railway, and David Farley, Automobile Club of Southern California.

Martial Law in Greece; Albanian Irregulars Issue Ultimatum

[By Associated Press]
GENEVA, Aug. 31.—The Greek delegation here received instructions tonight to submit the Italo-Greek dispute to the League of Nations.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Italians have occupied Corfu in Greece, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens tonight. The occupation of Corfu is a peaceful one and only temporary.

The legation further notified the Greek government that at 6 o'clock Friday afternoon an ultimatum giving only five hours grace to Greece would be handed to the Greek foreign minister.

The Italian legation at Athens, adds the dispatch, handed the Greek foreign minister a note announcing that the Italians had occupied Corfu at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

At 6 o'clock, however, when the Italian legation handed the note to the Greek minister, the occupation of Corfu already had been announced and great indignation was provoked.

A Central News dispatch from Rome says it stated in authoritative quarters that the "Greek attempt to make the Janina crisis an international question" will be resisted by Premier Mussolini, who will contend that it is a matter concerning only Greece and Italy.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Greek government has appealed to the League of Nations to act in the Graeco-Italian controversy, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch.

Martial law was proclaimed throughout Greece today, says an Athens dispatch to the Central News. The Athens correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph says the Italian minister visited the Greek foreign minister at noon today and is reported to have handed him a new note from the Rome government. An ultimatum from Jugo-Slavia, coming today, demands that the international commission engaged in delimiting the boundary between Albania and Jugo-Slavia suspend its work forthwith, has been received by Albanian legation in Rome, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the Italian capital.

NEW FALL STOCK IS IN AT GLENDALE DRY GOODS CO.

All the attractive new fall stock of dresses for daytime or evening wear, the bright colored swaggers, sweaters, new waists, skirts, jackets and accessories are coming in to the Glendale Dry Goods company, 115 East Broadway.

Among the dresses, silk crepes prevail in the darker shades for daytime wear, although the tans and "woody" browns are still prominent among them. There are elaborate beaded gowns for evening wear, and the charming little jacquettes come in all the popular wool and silk fabrics, with their odd buckles and perky side bows.

In the skirts, "everything is pleated." Most of the skirts are back in the sport plaids and stripes, but practically every one of them is made with side or box pleats.

The new fall coats are even more desirable in material, style and trimming than those of former seasons.

The Glendale Drygoods company is getting in a stock from which the most particular will be able to choose their new fall wardrobe, or any part of it.

LEARNEDS ARE GIVEN FAREWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Learned of Glendale, who are leaving next week for Africa as missionaries from the Christian church, were entertained at a farewell party Thursday night at the Central Christian church of Glendale. A program had been arranged by Mrs. F. W. Flegg and was opened by a social hour and refreshments.

The program for the evening included song numbers by the church choir, "We Have a Very Bad Cold" and an encore, "John Brown's Body," in pantomime. This was followed by readings by Jean Pith and Dorothy Fisher.

A great deal of fun was caused by the orchestra number given by the choir, "Old Black Joe," the drum being a dishpan, and the director being a broom and a baton, while the members of the choir played on combs. The next selection was "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." Dr. Logan and Mr. Myers added their share to the fun of the evening by their imitation of a trombone and drum set. This was followed by readings by Garnet Peters and the showing of motion pictures made by Mr. and Mrs. Learned by Homer Miller. At the close of the evening refreshments were served and social hour enjoyed.

'WAYFARER' TALK DRAWS AUDIENCE

A comparatively small, but very appreciative audience assembled in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse Thursday evening to hear the address of Dr. Crowther on "The Wayfarer."

All promises of the advance publicity in regard to the eloquence of Dr. Crowther and the interest of his subject were more than realized. He told of the circumstances under which he was led to write of the life of Christ and then of his realization that it was capable of dramatization. He wrote it in one night, at white heat of inspiration, and though he could have sold it and enriched himself, preferred to give it to the world without price. The full story of the Christ and His influence upon the world through the various periods of history down to the time of Theodore Roosevelt, are portrayed, but the Christ Himself, is reverently omitted as too sacred for impersonation.

Dr. Crowther's Los Angeles audience numbered about 4000 and it was a great disappointment to chamber of commerce officials when Glendale failed to respond in like measure.

The whole thing is a labor of love and service to humanity on the part of Dr. Crowther, who pays his own expenses and does not receive a penny of the proceeds which are to go to the University of Southern California. The condition on which he allows the pageant to be used is that not a penny shall go for commercial gain.

In this connection Glendaleans should bear in mind that Saturday evening, September 8, is to be Glendale night in the production of "The Wayfarer," and Mrs. Charles Temple of this city will personate "Columbia" in the big cast.

SUNSET CANYON SWIM IS ENJOYED

Those registered for the swimming activities with Glendale Community Service were the special guests at a swimming meet held Thursday night at the pool of the Sunset Canyon Country club. A member of the club acted as host to each of the guests.

Exhibition diving and swimming stunts were put on by Harriet Nielsen and Carrol Fletcher of the Pasadena Athletic club, Harvey Perry, Helen Brennan and Mickey Riley of the Ambassador Swimming club.

Helen Brennan was the winner of a combination style free-for-all race. She also won against Harriet Nielsen in a 50-yard free style race. Frank Lipstreu was the winner of a fifty-yard candle race.

After the swimming races, informal dancing was held at the clubhouse.

HOW TO CARE FOR THE HANDS

Any woman can have beautiful hands, says Clara Kimball Young, who plays the stellar role in "The Woman of Bronze," a Metro picture produced by Harry Garson and directed by King Vidor, now at the Glendale theatre. Miss Young's method for the care of the hands, which she discovered herself, is inexpensive and its very simplicity lends itself to use by everyone. The effectiveness of the method is assured by the fact that Miss Young uses it, for, as much as any other actress, she uses her hands to express shadings of emotion. The hands must always be supple, pliant and well kept. In discussing her formula she says: "Wash the hands in cold water only, using nothing but a good— but not necessarily expensive—bar of castle soap. Immerse them as many times a day as may be desired, but be sure to keep away from hot or even lukewarm water. In the evening, before retiring, wash the hands in hot water, as hot as you can stand, for three minutes, using no soap whatever. Don't worry if they become red; that won't hurt them the least bit. After the hands have been in the hot water, dry them thoroughly on a Turkish towel. The next thing to do is to apply white vaseline generously over them, until every bit of skin has been covered. Slip on a pair of rubber gloves—which should be used for no other purpose—and your hands are all set for the night. The next morning remove the gloves, wipe away the vaseline with an ordinary cloth, and wash in cold water, using the castle soap."

"That's all there is to my formula. You will find, if you follow these instructions for a week, that your hands will become soft and velvety and that the skin will become whitened and smoother. The beneficial effects of the white vaseline will show themselves in a very short time."

"The Woman of Bronze" was adapted by Hope Irving and Louis Lighton from the novel by Henry Kistamaecher, translated by Paul Kester. The screen version was photographed by L. William O'Connell and Joseph Wright was the art director. Miss Young's powerful supporting cast consists of John Bowers, Katherine McGuire, Edwin Stevens, Lloyd Whitlock and Edward Kimball. "The Woman of Bronze" was a great stage success in this country and in France.

CARRIER-CLERK CANDIDATES

About fifteen applications have been received from men who desire to take the civil service examination for carrier-clerk to secure a place of the eligible list of the Glendale post office.

The examination is to take place Saturday at 9 a. m. in room 120 of the High School.

As the eligible list previously secured had been exhausted, a number of temporary men not on the list were taken on for vacation work. These will be permitted to take the examination which would fit them for permanent positions. As soon as the special work for which they were engaged is completed, they will be released, and when more help is needed it will be selected from the eligible list.

MEXICO IS RECOGNIZED BY THE U. S.

Agreement to Resume Full Relations Is Reached

[By Associated Press] WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The United States and Mexico have agreed to resume full diplomatic relations.

Formal announcement of the agreement was made today by the state department.

The restoration of relations carries with it full recognition by the United States of the government of President Obregon. It results from the negotiations recently concluded in Mexico City by Charles B. Warren and John Barton Payne.

Recognition of the government of President Obregon is regarded here as in line with the American policy, stated through successive administrations, of giving disinterested help to a friendly country so long as the rights of Americans are properly safeguarded. The announced aim of the Washington government has been directed consistently to such a course, although often with difficulty because of outrages upon the persons and properties of American nationals in Mexico and of discouraging international complications incident to a condition of revolution and civil war running over more than a decade.

JACKIE COOGAN AT THE T. D. & L.

Real life and reel life offer some strange paradoxes.

Jackie Coogan continues to play poor boy parts because they are making him one of the richest lads in the world.

Everything that he touches seems to turn to gold. His money is invested in an oil well and it promptly turns a "gusher," spouting thousands of gallons of precious fluid a day. Royalties pour into the Coogan coffers for the use of his name on manufactured articles.

Nothing, however, pays him quite so well as life on the screen—the life of a penniless youngster.

This seven-year-old screen millionaire, whose annual income is enough to make many bank presidents turn green with envy, earns but a dollar a week as Toby Tyler, a peanut butcher, in his latest First National picture, "Circus Days," which comes to the T. D. & L. theatre today and tomorrow.

"Circus Days" is adapted from James Otis' well known book, "Toby Tyler," under the direction of Eddie Cline, and is said to give Jackie every opportunity to display his marvelous talents before the camera.

Jackie portrays the role of a little lad who runs away with a circus to provide some money for his poor mother, living with her sister in a little country village. He is engaged as lemonade merchant and peanut butcher at the aforementioned "princely" salary.

But, of course, Jackie—or rather Toby—rises beyond the dollar a week stage and makes everybody happy. After many adventures, happy and otherwise, Toby is, by sheer chance, suddenly hired as the star clown of the circus at the unheard of wages for a boy of $75 a week!

And there you are.

CITY COUNCIL ACTS ON NUMEROUS ORDINANCES

Much Street Work Is Indicated by the Resolutions

The following ordinances were adopted at the meeting of the Glendale city council last night:

An ordinance establishing the grade on Monterey road and Adams street.

An ordinance abandoning the proceedings for the opening and widening of Harvard street.

A ordinance naming a portion of Stanley avenue.

An ordinance naming a portion of Sierra avenue.

An ordinance establishing a commercial district on Maryland avenue.

The following resolutions were adopted:

A resolution adopting maps and plats in the office of the city engineer.

A resolution ordering work on the alleys in the business district.

A resolution ordering the work on Colorado street.

A resolution ordering the work on Dorothy drive, and Stocker street.

A resolution ordering the work on Kenneth road.

A resolution ordering the work on Raymond avenue, Tenth street and all intersecting streets.

A resolution awarding the contract for the improvement of Pacific, Gilbert and Gsell streets to Peter L. Ferry.

A resolution of intention for the improvement of Alameda avenue.

A resolution of intention for the improvement of Stanley avenue.

An ordinance ordering work on Doran street was offered.

An ordinance establishing the grade on a portion of Elm avenue was offered.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for one carload of poles, these to be 8 inches in diameter and 40 feet long.

W. H. Bullis, an employee of the Engineering department, was granted a vacation of two weeks.

Peter L. Ferry was granted an extension of 60 days on the improvement of Ruben avenue.

Earl Welch appeared before the board and asked for a 15-foot setback line at the corner of Acacia and Mariposa. He was told that if he would secure the signatures of the surrounding property owners he would be afforded this privilege.

A city attorney was instructed to present an amendment to the ordinance for the sale of Lot 1 on Mountain street, formerly owned by the city, to the American Legion. The original deed covering this land did not include a certain piece 60 feet in width, and the purpose of this amendment is to cover this strip.

City Clerk Van Wile was allowed $12.50 to cover the expenses of his trip to the city clerk's convention at San Diego in the near future.

'MASTERS OF MEN' IS OLD SEA YARN

"Mastres of Men," by Morgan Robertson, the world's most noted writer of sea stories, is shown at the Gateway theatre today. Critics have unanimously acclaimed this picture as the greatest sea story ever screened. The picturization by C. Graham Baker has retained loyally the atmosphere of the novel by America's master teller of sea stories and Vitaphone, who offers it, has provided a lavish production with an all star cast.

"Mastres of Men" tells the story of an American boy who accepted the shame of another's crime that he might protect the girl he loved from humiliation. Branded in his home town as a thief the lad runs away and joins the United States navy. While on leave he is shanghaied and suffers the brutality accorded to men before the mast on board a four-master sailing the Spanish Main. How he effects his escape and aids in the destruction of the Spanish fleet at Santiago provides a thrilling drama which holds interest throughout every foot of the screening.

There are four principal parts, as the story involves the love affairs of four young people. Earle Williams, one of the most popular stars of the screen, plays Lieutenant Breen, the officer who assists Dick Halpin (played by Cullen Landis) to win back Calhoun, who has been starved in many Vitaphone productions, and Wanda Hawley, long a popular star, play the chief women's roles.

It is a picture of types and of vivid realism. The selection of types is said to have been perfect, particularly of those actors who play the brutal, hard fighting men who comprise the crew of the "Mary Earl." Dick Sutherland and Jack Curtis, who play the mate and captain of the four-master, are known to fans as the most brutal looking actors in motion pictures. They give realism to Morgan Robertson's description of the brutes who made life a hell for men before the mast.

"Mastres of Men" should provide excellent entertainment at the Gateway theatre.

What Our Folks Are Doing

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wagner of 416 Myrtle street are planning a trip to San Diego over Labor Day.

Members of Winona Camp Fire group, of which Mrs. Spilbury is leader, are enjoying a week-end party in the Malibu mountains.

Mrs. H. C. Levey and daughter Dorothy of 811 South Glendale avenue, are enjoying a ten days' outing at Huntington Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hildreth of 217 Milford street returned the first part of this week after a few days' vacation at Hot Springs.

Mrs. A. M. Hunter and daughter, Louise of 205 East Acacia street left last Tuesday to spend a two weeks' vacation at Hermosa Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones and daughter, who have been spending the month at Hermosa Beach, will return to their beautiful home at 727 Kenneth road, today.

Mrs. F. Edwards of Oakland arrived in Glendale recently and will spend several weeks at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Keleher of 528 North Louise street.

Friends of Miss Elizabeth Stevens of this city have received beautiful postal cards of the Santa Cruz woods, telling of the good time she is having there and that she will be home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Houdyshe and daughters, Miss Sybil and Miss Sadie of 308 North Orange street, will return to their home this coming Monday. They have been spending a week's vacation at Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hall of 134 North Belmont street have as their guest for a month their daughter, Mrs. W. G. Burkhardt, and her little son, of San Diego. Mr. Burkhardt will join them early next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd W. Wilson and children of Hanford, Calif., are in Glendale for a two weeks' visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Learned, and also with Mr. Wilson's sister, Mrs. C. R. Lusby.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McCann and two boys of the Kenneth road district are leaving Saturday by auto for the Feather River country, the scene of much of the literary work of Bret Harte, and are quite excited over the prospect of a very interesting trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoyt and children, Lucille and Teddy, of 1140 1/2 East California street, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whitney and Miss Elsie Whitney of 364 West Oak street, have taken a cottage at Balboa Beach until after Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Feinstein of Hermosa Beach are spending a two weeks' vacation in Glendale. They are staying at the home of A. M. Hunter of 205 East Acacia street while the Hunters are at Hermosa. Mrs. Feinstein is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter.

Charles Guthrie, the realtor, left this week for old Mexico to inspect a large tract of land just over the border which his friend, Dr. Williamson has discovered and in which he is trying to interest Mr. Guthrie, who will be gone about ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Boland of 823 East Colorado, are leaving Saturday morning for Oceanside, to be gone about ten days. They will be with friends who have a cottage there. The Boland real estate office will be in charge of R. A. Brackett during Mr. Boland's absence.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Esterly and children, John, Anna Mae and Felice, of 545 North Adams street, returned Thursday noon from a 10-days' vacation trip to Beaumont. They were guests at the home of Mrs. F. C. Hoffman, formerly of Glendale, and whose husband passed away just a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Von Oven spent the week end at San Diego visiting Coronado and La Mesa and returning Monday evening. They have planned a week-end trip for Saturday, Sunday and Labor day, which will take them up the coast to Ojai, Ventura and Santa Barbara.

Dr. J. E. Eckles and wife are leaving tomorrow for the old home in Polk, Nebraska, to be gone about two weeks. They will take with them the ashes of Dr. Eckles' father, who died in Glendale a few weeks ago. While there Dr. Eckles will settle the estate of his deceased father. Mrs. Eckles' mother lives in Polk, also, so she will have the pleasure of a visit with her.

GLENDALIANS TO GO DOVE HUNTING

A party of prominent Glendale people will leave tonight for a three days' dove hunt in the section just east of Riverside. There is a rumor that dove hunting is exceptionally good in that section, so that the party should enjoy some real sport.

The members of this outfit include Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Tracy of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. McElin and Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. McElin of this city.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. Marlenee of 301 South Central avenue returned Tuesday from a week-end motor trip to Lake Arrowhead.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brand of "Miradero," North Glendale, are spending their vacation at their summer home at Mono Lake. They will return to Glendale about Sept. 15.

Miss Florence Rattray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rattray of 286 Kenneth road, left Glendale Thursday to be the guest of Miss Barbara Kratz at Hermosa Beach until after Labor day.

Mrs. Alexander Mitchell and daughter, Lorraine, have just returned from a stay of a few weeks at Coronado Tent City, San Diego, where they met Mrs. R. W. Meeker and family who are spending the summer there.

Mrs. D. Galbraith of 453 West Colorado street is spending an enjoyable month's vacation in San Francisco. At present she is visiting her mother, Mrs. Jeserum, in Palo Alto. She will return to Glendale shortly.

SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS MORTON

to become the bride of Hugh B. Freeman, was the guest of honor at a surprise shower given Tuesday night by Mrs. Lela Buckham of 332 West Lexington drive, the guests being largely members of her Sunday school class at the First Methodist church.

The house was decorated with bouquets of old fashioned flowers and greenery. A number of games were played and at the close of the evening the bride-to-be, following the winding of many yards of red cord, found her gifts cleverly concealed about the house.

The members of Mrs. Buckham's class present included Miss Florence Hamilton, Miss Marion Farland, Miss Minnie Anderson, Miss Julia Hull, Miss Mildred Matthews, Miss Bernice Coffey, Miss Cora Hilton, Miss Marjory Holway, Miss Charlotte Cavell, Miss Elizabeth Arent, Miss Marian Grey, Miss Doris Moyle, Miss Inez Franklin, Miss Esther Hartman, Miss Myrtle Nelson, Miss Charlotte Methvin, Mrs. C. F. McKee and Mrs. Louise Morton, mother of the guest of honor. Other guests included Miss Edna Augur of Los Angeles, Miss Eleanor Brice and Miss Miriam Stafford of Glendale.

The wedding of Miss Morton and Hugh B. Freeman will take place on September 6 at the home of the bride.

SHERMAN AYERS HONORS NIECES

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Ayers of 315 Cameron place, entertained Thursday night in honor of their nieces, Misses Vivian and Dorothy Ulroy of Indianapolis. It was largely a gathering of relatives. During the evening refreshments were served.

Those present included Miss Helen Buck and Miss Mary Buck of Glendale, Halford Buck, Richard Buck, Lucille Pearson and Lavon Pearson of Garvanza, Marian Ayers of Highland Park, and Homer Cridder of Glendale, and the guests of honor.

DR. AND MRS. CAMPBELL ENTERTAIN AT DINNER

Dr. and Mrs. George Campbell of 206 East Wilson, entertained with a small dinner party Wednesday evening, coverings being laid for Dr. and Mrs. Russell Letson of Los Angeles, Dr. Clyde Bowe of Hollywood, and Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Remmen. A social evening followed the dinner.

R. T. W. CLASS MEETS SEPTEMBER 27

No regular meeting of the R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church was held in August. The next regular meeting of the organization will be held September 27 at the home of Mrs. P. E. Maxwell, 129 West Burchett street.

A special pre-ceremonial meeting of Glendale Pyramid No. 39, Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciois, will be held tonight, August 31, at 8 o'clock, at the Odd Fellows hall. All members should be present and help to arrange for the ceremonial that will be held on Friday, September 7.

Trustworthy beautifying advice!

"Isn't it logical that two former professional instructors of National School of Cosmeticians should be thoroughly equipped with Marlene's 15 years of beauty experience?"

"Perhaps that is why, in Glendale, there has been developed one of the outstanding successes among the beauty shops of Southern California."

Truths in Epigram

Liars ought to have good memories.—Sidney.

He that is down needs fear no fall.—Bunyan.

None but the brave deserves the fair.—Dryden.

I won't quarrel with my bread and butter.—Swift.

At thirty, a man suspects himself a fool; knows it at forty, and reforms his plan.—Young.

In relation to the attempt of communities to be zoned in accordance with artistry of development, there is, of course, some show of opposition. "Esthetics can't figure," says the spokesman of the purely utilitarian. He means that no weight should be given to such trivial matters as beauty, no thought to harmony. He is all for business. If there is a slightly thoroughfare planned, he wants the privilege of defacing it by the presence of peanut stands, or more pretentious structures reared to commerce.

To many residents of cities, homes have a meaning, and the green of a lawn, and the shade of a stately tree, are not spectacles representing waste space. These desire to live in seemly environment. They recognize the necessity for stores of all classes, but they recognize the fact that there is ample room both for the store and the home, and they do not see why the two need be crowded together.

The commercial tendency to mar natural beauty, and to prevent the creation of artificial comeliness in landscape and dwelling, is manifest also in suburban communities. There the cheap structure, erected for service only, bringing down the fair aspect of a neighborhood, rises next to the spacious grounds on which much money and loving care have been expended. The owners of the homes object. They think there should be restrictions. They ask such protection as lies in the establishment of zones. It is asserted by the householders that no harm could be caused to business by confining it within certain lines, but on the other hand, great harm results to residential values through the encroachment of business. And business, they say, does not require proximity to homes in these days of orders by telephone, and deliveries by automobile. So the spirited fight is on in more than one locality.

PUGILISM

Judged by the amount of printed matter touching the subject, the people of this country might be considered to have gone daft on the subject of pugilism. They have not, however, reached any such state of mind. As a whole they have no respect for the professional fighter, and only a minority has any interest in his prowess and career. Boxing by amateurs stands on a wholly different basis. Often it is the means of developing physical strength and health. It affords a rivalry as innocuous as other forms of contest between athletes.

Why the prizefighter is held in esteem is clear enough. In the first place there is utter lack of confidence in his integrity. The ethics of the ring are deemed to be without honor. The result of a much-heralded meeting of champions and near champions may all be arranged in advance. The public has not the slightest assurance to the contrary. Even the finish known technically as a "knockout" often is suspected of having been as deliberately pre-arranged as though the fighting was by actors posing before the camera.

The small fry of pugilism represent the socially useless, and often the vicious. The line of demarcation dividing the "pork-and-beaner" from the vagrant, often is so tenuous as not to be discerned by the police. Training camps where fighters prepare for the scheduled event draw the curious, but they also draw the criminal element. As a rule the notable fighters fulfill no useful purpose in life. The habit of paying them enormous sums for exhibitions of brutality merely illustrates the rapidity of sucker births.

Pugilists are strong enough to work, but they won't work. They constitute a type of parasite that will flourish only so long as their managers are permitted to delude the populace.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE TELLS THE WAY

"Undivided allegiance to the constitution, and unhesitating obedience to legislative action."

With this sentence President Coolidge imparted to newspaper men of the south his idea of how they could best help in the maintenance of good government. He added more, but in these few words was the essence of his message. Such directness bespeaks the executive character.

The constitution is being ignored to an extent that never before has marked American history. One portion of it, an amendment forbidding traffic in liquor, is being ignored not only by the class usually defiant of legal restraint, but by respected citizens who seem rather proud of promoting an illicit business.

Organizations plainly in hostility to the real spirit of the constitution are springing up. They assume to represent a sort of super-Americanism. They say it is their intent to uphold the law, while their very existence is contrary to law. When a group of members take into their own hands the enforcement of the statutory and moral codes, they degenerate into a mob, and they have no merit that does not belong to other lynchers.

If the newspapers fail to give warning against the danger of undermining the social structure, they are neglecting a pressing duty. To abide by the constitution, and by legislation framed in accord with it, not only is essential but absolutely vital.

THE FOLLY OF FEAR

One of the good things that might have been gathered out of the air of a recent Sunday, and doubtless was so gathered by many, was a lecture on "Our Every-Day Fears." The purpose of the lecture was to show that most such fears are baseless, and the habit of fear not only foolish but hurtful. All persons of reflective habit realize the truth and force of the lecturer's pronouncements.

For the fear that so often oppresses there is no logical ground. The condition dreaded in advance seldom comes. If it does come it is found to be less terrible than pictured by the imagination. In the face of national calamity there is gloom, but the darkest hour is followed by sunlight. Often men are miserable in contemplation of that which never happens. The rich have been known to look forward with dread to the chance of an old age of poverty, and to the end, to have regarded their superfluous hoard as the important element of existence, guarding it with a zeal amounting to idolatry. Thus fear has made them hard and unhappy.

The person whose conscience does not reproach him has nothing to fear. Apprehension concerning ill health, concerning poverty, loss of position, or anything else is wrong. Its influence is to bring about the very conditions in contemplation of which the human unit loses poise. Therefore it is necessary to avoid inculcation of the theory that fear is natural or necessary. Particularly is it desirable that children be started in life without having had aroused in them the timidity that if unconquered means misery.

The statement is made that the late President Harding set a precedent when he went into Canada, but years ago President Arthur had crossed the Canadian line. He was on a hunting trip in Wyoming, with an escort of soldiers. The party strayed into Canada inadvertently, and discovering its error, moved back quickly, the men in the expedition being cautioned to say nothing about it.

IDEALS AND SUICIDE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

"Excuse me for living" and "Excuse me for dying."

These pitiful messages were left behind by a man who some days ago took poison. His excuse for suicide was that he found the struggle for existence and the simultaneous maintaining of his ideals too much of a struggle.

It seems to have been a case of sacrificing ideals or giving up life.

The inevitable battering of ideals in a world given over largely to selfishness seems to effect sensitive people that way; just the same, the man who has no ideals has no life. He has only certain animal activities and a mighty desolation in the place where his spirit should dwell.

The world being what it is, man's choice has too often been between physical comfort and spiritual satisfaction and those who have chosen the latter have made history and blazed the way for advancement.

Compromise is a word abhorred by all idealists; they fix their eyes on the white heights and overlook the fact that one can only stand on them after he mounts the path between his present position and the place where his eyes have come to rest.

After all, compromise is not ignoble; it is merely taking what you can get or what you can hold after you have secured it. The compromiser, if he be also an idealist, conserves his gains and makes of them a firm platform from which to launch his next advance. He never gives up merely because he finds his journey interrupted. The suicide is one who distrusts the evolutionary law or one who gets tired waiting for its operation. His ideals blind him, and, illogically, he expects the seed of today to be the full flowered tree of tomorrow. His tragedy is that he can neither wait nor compromise, which in the final reckoning is waiting while garnering what today is available.

No living thing owes apology for living; life is thrust on us and we do with it the best we can. Whether we are ever justified in laying it down is something that each individual must himself decide. Religion, race, custom, strength and vision are all factors in the decision. Among the Chinese and Japanese suicide is accepted as a matter of course, and the threat of it is one of the most powerful weapons for controlling the living. The oriental commits suicide for two reasons, to punish those who have thwarted him and to punish himself for failure of disgrace.

In the first case he dies to make things easier for himself; in the second for those whom his failure has disgraced or pained. In either case he offers no apology for dying.

Here in the west opportunity has many avenues of approach. It is only when one is hopelessly ill, maimed or defective that life stretches down the years barren and arid.

Ideals are good and inspiring, but they are not worth dying for unless death comes as it came to Christ or Robert Huss, Cranmer or Savanarola, that is at the hands of others who dread the idealist.

For such deaths there is no apology.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

My former neighbor came into possession of an income not long ago, on conditions. He isn't at all pleased with them.

"No man," he told me indignantly when we met this morning, "had a right to tie such a string to his gift. Why didn't he give us the money outright—so we could enjoy it?"

I knew, but I wouldn't tell. Old George Bill, my former neighbor's father-in-law, is the man who made the gift.

"I'll pay you this income, this way," he told my neighbor. "First, you must break up your home. I'll allow so much for your house. Second, you must send the children to boarding schools—in some other town. Third, Nellie—that's Old George's daughter and my former neighbor's wife—shall be given in cash a certain sum for her own needs. You can take care of yourself."

My former neighbor pleaded and Nellie wept, but Old George was adamant. The house was broken up and Nellie—who was in a fair way to become a swallow, nervous, broken-down drudge—recovered the roses in her cheeks after a few months in a boarding house. The children had been a sullen, noisy, graceless lot, spoiled by their father and out of control of their wearied mother. Under the discipline of their boarding schools they are being made over into courteous, kindly, likeable youngsters. My neighbor is compelled to keep his coat on during the evening in the boarding-house, and is learning a few new things about this world he lives in. Old George Bill is content.

"I've busted up their cussed home," he growls, "and it will stay busted. I've seen to that in my will. Their home was killing my girl. It takes more strength than she possesses to fight the battles of a home."

THE LISTENING POST

A man with a sense of humor stood on a windy corner. Waiting for a car or something or other. It does not matter what.

JAMES W. FOLEY

The important thing about it is that he had a sense of humor.

That is one of the most important of your mental or spiritual possessions. It gives you perspective. Teaches you what is important and what is only trivial. It enables you to keep your temper.

It keeps you often from making a fool of yourself. It keeps you from quarreling over pennies.

And saying afterward that it was not the pennies but the principle of the thing.

Many people say they quarrel over principle. When they quarrel merely because they lack humor.

They say of Tom Hood, the English humorist and poet, that he lay dying. And a long-faced comforter came to see him.

Cheer his last hours with doleful outpourings.

And Hood looked at that long face and sad countenance, unillumined with humor.

And at last he said: "Who is dying here—you or I?"

It is one of those stories that are good even if it is not true.

Like the last words of many great men. Made afterward to fit an occasion.

For it is fit that a great man when he die say a great thing.

Songs of the Poets

Let Me Enjoy—By Thomas Hardy

Let me enjoy the earth no less Because the all-enacting Might
That fashioned forth its loveliness
Had other aims than my delight.

About my path there flits a Fair,
Who throws me not a word or sign;
I will find charm in her uncare,
And laud those lips not meant for mine.

From manuscripts of moving song
Inspired by scenes and souls unknown,
I'll pour out raptures that belong
To others, as they were my own.

Perhaps some day, towards Paradise
And all its bliss—if such should be—
I shall lift glad, afar-off eyes,
Though it contain no place for me.

AN EMPRESS WHO WRITES POETRY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE writing of poetry has always been an occupation in favor among the nobility of Japan.

Among western nations the composition of poetry seems to be considered a slight symptom indicating softening of the brain. Of course, once in a while some one like Kipling or Walt Whitman gets away with it, but young gentlemen who compose sonnets to their mistresses' eyebrows are usually so afraid of ridicule that they conceal their work as a crime.

It is safe to say that if Mr. Rockefeller, President Coolidge or Judge Gary were to blossom forth in a few comely verses or publish a slim volume of home made rhymes every clown in Christendom would be hot after him.

As a matter of fact, however, good poetry is the supreme test of the creative imagination, and the main reason why those who are anxious for the applause of their fellow men do not write it is the same reason that most of us do not make a million dollars—they can't.

Her Majesty, the Empress of Japan, takes a profound interest in the education of girls, and particularly in the advancement of the moral culture of the women generally. Some time ago she summoned the director of one of the schools to the Imperial Palace and presented a short Japanese poem to the students of his institution. The poem was composed by Her Majesty herself and it may be interesting to see just how it looks. It is as follows:

Utsumishite Niou
Har uno no Hanasumire
Hito no kokoro ni Utsumishite-gana.

A free rendering of this into English would be:

"The elegance of the wild violets
That bloom humbly and modestly
In the fields at springtime,
It is my wish to be transplanted
Into my people's heart."

This verse suitably set to music is to be adopted as a girls' school song throughout the Empire.

It is interesting to let the fancy wander and imagine what would happen in a European country or in America if a ruler gave evidence that he was interested in promoting the cause of beauty among the people and was not wholly occupied in the business of handing out jobs to hungry office seekers, collecting taxes and punishing crime.

After all, people are born into this world to make as much out of life as possible, to make life as rich and satisfactory as they can. And the value of life depends quite as much upon the beauty one can get into it, both moral and material beauty, as it does upon the amount of money one can accumulate or the position to which one may attain.

Is not every question of human relations translatable into terms of beauty? Would not the world get along better if we talked less about things being wicked and more about things being ugly?

Is it not possible that we are all pretty much deluded in our estimation of what are the important things in this life and what are the things that make no matter?

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE RESIDENTIAL TOWN

(Salem News)

The great trouble with American life today is the tendency to see everything from a money point of view. People are forever asking with regard to every choice in life, "Will it pay?" They judge education and occupation and marriage and all other relations by the money point of view. But there is a side of life still that is to some extent and in some minds free from this sordid standard. There is a group of things to which we give the name of home. There are values in one's home that cannot be measured by the mere coarse yardstick of money. So people will often sacrifice money rewards in order to retain the home associations that they prize.

The question of developing what is called a good residential town demands in a large measure on the acquirement of this point of view. You can't have a good home town if you ask in regard to everything you do, if it will pay in terms of money.

If the object for improving a home or a street or a neighborhood is purely to make money, a lot of folks will never cooperate in such efforts. If the only motive for planting fine trees and shrubbery is that they make a residence sell for more, a lot of people will never do it.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

If the residents of Los Angeles are satisfied with the Cryer administration, that of course, is their affair. Yet the outsider has a right to look on with interest.

HENRY JAMES

The charge was made that there was an "invisible government." This charge has been abundantly proved. It was proved when the invisible was forced to put on visibility, step into the open, and be seen of men. But the revelation has not seemed to have any effect. The government that once operated slyly, now does the same thing in the open. It is running affairs, and doesn't care who knows it. The arrangement appears to suit Cryer.

It might appear to some, that to be mayor, should involve the exercise of authority legally vested in the mayoralty. Evidently Cryer holds a different view. He seems contented with the title while permitting others to give the orders.

Invisible government has disorganized the police force. It has ousted a competent chief who declined to play the game, preferring to do his duty. It has procured another competent chief, and will oust him as soon as convinced that he intends to direct the department according to law and conscience.

But as said before, if he residents of Los Angeles like this sort of thing, far be it from the rank outsider to kick up a row.

An interesting photograph shows a little old lady, Mrs. Alma F. Wieman, and grouped about her, six sons. The smallest of the sons has a weight of 190 pounds, but his stalwart brothers, averaging around 225 pounds, hope that he will grow.

The mother of the lot looks happy and proud, and no wonder.

The findings of the Heath case had been forecasted correctly as being a vindication of the Los Angeles police officer accused of insubordination, and the habit of politics.

This was a notable trial, particularly in that the defendant was not tried. On the contrary, former Chief Oaks was the man tried. The verdict against him had been formulated in advance. So, doubtless, the Heath verdict.

In the circumstances, neither verdict carries any weight in the estimation of the public.

While K. Z. Foster was talking to a Chicago crowd, probably along his usual line of reddish patter, what seemed to be shots were heard in the hall. Possibly, however, 'twas but the echo produced by the hurrying of the orator's adjectives.

The whole town of Newhall got in bad because of partaking of the meat of a deer shot out of season. The shooter went to jail, but the edifice could not harbor the citizenry entire. Those not yet arrested are so timid that they are expected to turn to vegetarianism.

Occasionally the government does an excellent stroke of business. Its canal investment at Panama is turning out first rate. The canal is making money. For the first fifteen days of August the tolls amounted to $1,000,000.

Fun is being made of the protest of a police chief against the film habit of portraying the policeman as a person having the intelligence and agility and high purpose of the circus monkey. Nevertheless the practice is bad, and good taste ought to act in estoppel.

The policeman is a highly useful citizen, deserves credit for courage, and earns more pay than he gets.

Los Angeles is to have more large apartment houses. The demand for such accommodations as thus afforded is much greater than the supply.

In many respects Los Angeles has gone far ahead of San Francisco, but in respect of apartment houses of the first class, it hasn't even played second fiddle.

Representative Madden of Illinois has a plan for reduction of taxes. Such plans always appeal to the taxpayer, but when they get before a legislative body, are likely to get shot full of holes. It is said that the idea in particular is to relieve the small taxpayer. In numerous cases the large ones seem to have figured out their own measures of relief.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

SUNBURN

The children turned out to grass for the summer, think that the first right thing to do is to acquire a good coat of tan. "I bet you'll have the most tan in the whole crowd."

"Bet you won't."

"See if I don't."

Out he goes stripped to the waist and follows the sun about the fields to catch the very last burning rays. By night his skin is scarlet and before morning he is in great distress. He is burned and the pain is surprisingly hard to bear. Fever adds to his discomfort and a flock of blisters rise in most unaccommodating places.

The doctor comes and swabs him in bandages doused in oil, gives him a sedative and tells him that he will have to be laid up for a few days until all the blisters are gone and the skin healed.

Then he adds the last straw: "You will have to be very careful and stay out of the direct sunlight for some weeks. Your skin has been badly burned and you will be more susceptible to the heat for a little while. Stay out of the sun, now—remember! You were lucky to get off as easily as you did. Might have made yourself very ill indeed."

Heedless children at the seashore wet their bodies and then sit in the sunshine to get "good and tanned." They would not dream of scorching themselves at the red-hot stove but they dare the sun to harm them.

They suffer in consequence, but the damage has been done. They have injured the texture of their skin and lost a great deal of pleasure.

Sitting in an open boat on the ocean for hours while the sun beats down on them and reflects its burning light on their tender skins strikes them as great fun until the extent of the error is discovered toward nightfall. When the burning throbbing pain sets in the fun is shunted to the backgrounds and griefed astonishment takes its place.

Teach the children the dangers of sunburn if you possibly can manage it. The ounce of prevention will save them and their guardians an immense amount of discomfort if not worse.

A low-necked sleeveless shirt means sunburned neck and arms. If the arms and neck are gradually exposed to the sun they will gradually harden to it and soon may be left uncovered all day long. But even then children should not be allowed to play in the sun while its rays beat down on the backs of their necks. A light cotton or straw hat that shades the back of the neck ought to be worn until the greatest heat is past. Children won't like that neither do they like to be ill.

A sunbath is a fine thing for children, but there is no sense in having them scaled in their bath, now is there?

"REGISTER"

To Be Used In the Advertising of the

ROGERS FOUR WHEEL DRIVE MOTOR TRUCK

We want a short catchy SLOGAN, preferably not of more than ten words, which we will use as the "keynote" of all our advertising, and which will immediately associate the fact that the ROGERS FOUR WHEEL DRIVE MOTOR TRUCK is manufactured in GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, "THE FASTEST GROWING CITY IN THE WORLD."

RULES OF THE CONTEST

- Contest is open to any resident of Glendale or Los Angeles County, no age limit.
- Slogans must be written on one side of a sheet of paper only, together with the name and address of the contestant.
- All letters must be addressed to the Company, P. O. Box 428, Glendale, Calif.
- The contest closes on September 15th, 1923, and no letters bearing a postmark of a later date and time than 12:00 mid-night of this date will be eligible.
- Three of the Company's officials will act as Judges, and the selection of the best Slogan will be made as soon after the closing date as possible.
- Twice a week during this contest the Slogans offered, together with the names and addresses of the contestants, will be published in the daily press.
- Upon the final selection of the best Slogan, it will be formally announced in the Glendale Daily Press, and a check for the $100.00 mailed to the successful contestant.
- No employee of the company or relative of such employee will be allowed to compete.

In order to assist you in the preparation of the best possible slogan, we shall be glad to have any contestant call upon us, at our showroom,

117 WEST HARVARD ST., GLENDALE, CALIF.

We shall be glad to explain in detail the purposes of a FOUR WHEEL DRIVE TRUCK.

Why we selected the City of Glendale for the site of our new plant, which is to employ five hundred skilled mechanics.

Why the capital necessary for this enterprise is to come largely from Glendale.

Why five of the most prominent business men of Glendale are to become associated with us in the Directorate of this Company and the active management of its affairs.

Why we desire to weld this enterprise so closely with the City of Glendale, that the thought of the ROGERS FOUR WHEEL DRIVE TRUCK and the CITY OF GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA will be indissoluble in the mind of everyone who sees or hears of a ROGERS TRUCK or GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA.

THAT IS WHY WE ARE WILLING TO PAY $100.00 for a SLOGAN that will accomplish this purpose.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

When you and I were young, Maggie, we had three square meals a day and we called them breakfast, dinner and supper. They consisted of plain, well-cooked food, pretty scanty, maybe, at times, with some of us, but generally nourishing. We didn't have the flour, then, that was patented and refined and rolled and sifted until all the nutriment was taken from it. Our bread was not white as the drifted snow, but, Oh man! it was good. Nowadays they take all the nutritious part out of the flour to have it white and then we have to eat the bran they take out to get some nourishment, or better, we eat whole wheat, cracked wheat or rye bread. But, returning to the meals, now the "sassy" folk have their first breakfast and second breakfast, then lunch or luncheon about the time we used to eat dinner, and in the evening, at supper time, they have "dinner." Then after the theatre or "dawnce" they go to one of the swell cafes and stuff on all sorts of indigestible food. I don't know what they call this eat fest but any old name will do. And they call that "enjoying life." Maybe it is, but we old timers still prefer our three square meals a day, breakfast, dinner and supper, with good brown bread, butter, milk, eggs, plenty of vegetables and fruits.

There is a man by the uncommon name of Smith who has achieved the uncommon and truly remarkable task of writing a screen play of a book that really represented the subject matter in nearly every particular. I refer to the film recently shown in a local theatre, "Masters of Men." It is a very faithful presentation of the great novel of the same name by Morgan Robertson, whose wonderful sea stories have been so popular in recent years. He wrote only two complete novels, this one and "Sinfel Peck," but gave to the world a novelette or two and many short stories, all vivid narratives of sea life, among them the remarkable story, "The Wreck of the Titan," an almost exact prophecy of the wreck of the Titanic a few years later. The film version of "Masters of Men" tells almost the entire story most vividly and diverges from the text in only one place. The depiction of the naval battle between Admiral Cervera's Spanish fleet and the American warships was most vivid. Another notable feature was that all the uniforms were preserved, the modest costumes of the young ladies being those of that day and no autos were introduced, as was done in a film version of another novel of that period. The average scenario writer seems to be utterly ignorant of history, judging from the ridiculous anachronisms introduced in so many screen plays.

A Glendale resident who recently returned from an extended visit to the homeland, Tennessee and Kentucky, brings back disheartening pictures of the reverses that have overtaken the once prosperous planters of that favored section of the southland. The wholesale exodus of negro families has left a dearth of hired help in the fields and kitchens that is positively distressing. Wealthy farmers and gentle ladies who have never before had to depend upon their own hands for the common tasks of the farm and home are finding it hard to adapt themselves to the uncustomed demands that confront them on every side, but are nobly meeting the emergencies as best they can. Many thousands of acres of rich land are lying idle because there is not enough labor to cultivate them and even if there was, the price of farm products are so low that crops are a loss instead of an asset. Many millionaire cotton planters have lost much of their rich acreage because they could not pay the taxes on it.

One place which this Glendale resident visited is of romantic interest because of the manner of its creation and the tragic events that have clustered about it. This is Reelfoot lake in western Tennessee, just a few miles from the Mississippi river. It was formed by the sinking down about 100 feet of a long, narrow section of land in the great earthquake which devastated the Mississippi valley in 1811 and 1812. By the way, the newspapers of that section that take so much pleasure in printing exaggerated stories of Southern California's harmless quakes are careful to refrain from mentioning this destructive tremor, which lasted intermittently for nearly 24 months, changed the course of the Mississippi river in many places, destroyed the little city of New Madrid, Mo., and formed this freak lake in western Tennessee. Great fissures opened in many places. Such an earthquake at this time would cost thousands of lives and cause a property loss of billions. This Reelfoot lake was the favorite haunt of the night riders who terrorized that section early in this century, destroying much property and killing several people. The crime that finally aroused public feeling to such a high pitch that it led to the hunting down of the lawless gang was the murder of Capt. Rankin, who, when in company with another lawyer named Taylor, was murdered at Reelfoot lake while on a hunting and fishing trip. They were members of a sporting club that had obtained concessions on the lake which the night riders resented. Several of the criminals were sentenced to hang and others to long terms in the penitentiary, but on retrial were most of them freed. One man who now boasts he was a ringleader in this criminal gang and who was one of those sentenced to death, is Sam Applewhite, and he makes himself very prominent to visitors of the lake region, introducing himself as "Nightrider Applewhite," and willingly talking of his exploits.

Not only is the western section of Kentucky and Tennessee in dire straits agriculturally, but the past season has been very trying in many ways. Continual rains in May, June and July made planting very late, rendered it impossible to put out early fruits and vegetables and destroyed most of the tree and bush fruits. Cherry and berry pies are missing, watermelons are imported and sell at from 75 cents to $1.50 each, and there are almost no vegetables of any kind in this land that is usually so rich in all these things.

It certainly was a wonderful relief for this Glendale resident to get back to beautiful Glendale, so sunshiny and yet so delightfully cool and breezy, away from the sticky, oppressive heat, the mud and the flies.

Forty years ago last February, in a little Illinois city near the banks of the Wabash, I handled my first telephone exchange. It was in my weekly newspaper office, just acquired, and had a capacity of 25 phones. Mine was a branch station of the Terre Haute, Indiana, exchange, a very large one for those times in a city of 25,000 people, boasting 300 telephones. My little exchange had just four local telephones connected with it and most of my calls were to non-subscribers who had to be sent for by messenger, and it cost the caller at the other end a fee of 10 cents, generally. I was manager, wire chief, trouble man, information and all the operators. I often had three calls a day from local subscribers and five calls from Terre Haute requiring messenger service. The office devil was utilized for this. We did not have the two-wire metallic circuit, but used the single wire ground circuit only. When high winds swayed the wires so that they tangled together, I'd send this same boy or go out myself and pry them apart. The salaries of all my positions did not make me rich. When I think of the simple construction of that little old 25-phone switch board and then look at the complicated mass of wires, connections, electrical devices and what not in the small exchange system just installed in the Daily Press office, I realize the wonderful advance that has been made in telephone construction in the short space of 40 years.

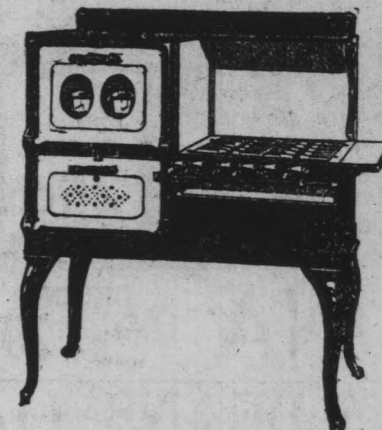

Gasoline has been selling for as low as 6 cents a gallon in Los Angeles recently, but the big rich companies manage to keep up the price to considerably more than double that figure. If I remember rightly, 10 cents a gallon is about the lowest price gasoline ever sold at back in Illinois except when the Standard wanted to run out a rival that dared to invade its territory, then 5 cents was not too low for its stations to charge until the presumptuous stranger was forced to quit and then the price was promptly boosted to the old figure and generally a little more so. In those days crude oil sold for as low as 66 cents a barrel and in some places 50 cents, I was told.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—Appointment of a special committee to cooperate with a similar committee of the National Association of Credit Men to endeavor to suggest ways and means of removing alleged abuses in practice of bankruptcy cases, was recommended to the American Bar association today by the committee on professional ethics and grievances, of which Thomas Francis Howe is chairman.

The committee reported on its meeting with a committee of the credit men following publication of a bulletin by the credit men entitled, "The Profession of Law Needs Housecleaning." The bulletin criticized lawyers for supposedly inactivity in endeavoring to prevent fraudulent practices in bankruptcy cases. Local conditions were found to vary, and cooperation of local bar associations with local credit associations was suggested. Because of limited time it was not determined whether any amendments to the present bankruptcy laws would be effective or desirable, so appointment of the special committee was suggested to give the question further study.

Wise men are wrong more frequently than fools are right.

AMERICA NOT TO DECAY, SAYS STEINMETZ

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Aug. 31.—"Whether the country is going to the dogs or not depends upon two things—your age and your digestion." According to Dr. Chas.
P. Steinmetz, electrical wizard and authority extraordinary on social developments.
Speaking before the leading business men of the country at the Babson Institute, Dr. Steinmetz discussed the future of American civilization.

"The old civilization of Greece and Rome," he says, "were founded upon a system of slavery. The citizens of Athens enjoyed their leisure, produced works of art, attended the theatre, and pondered on philosophical problems, only at the expense of a much larger class of slaves who labored long hours that the Athenians might live in luxury. The Roman citizens in his time enjoyed the freedom of the world but Rome prospered at the expense of a hundred subject peoples. In both of these older civilizations a very small proportion of the people enjoyed their advantages at the expense of a large majority.

"The idle rich degenerated, as the idle rich will, and the great mass of the common people finally reacted to the impositions put upon them as the mass of humanity always does eventually react. To be sure our histories tell us that Rome was sacked by the vandals, but only because the great mass of the common people who made up the real Roman empire were quite willing that it should be sacked. The vandals meant nothing to them but years of toll under the slave driver's lash. Great works of art meant tribute and taxes. The culture of Rome spelled nothing to them but oppression and extortion.
The vandals were welcome.

"Today we have made slaves of steam and electricity. Tasks that used to spell weeks of drudgery and the hardest kind of work for human hands are now done in a few moments by the electric motor.
Goods and merchandise once transported slowly at the expenditure of great effort are now carried swiftly and easily by the steam locomotive.
Our present civilization is enjoyed and shared in by every member of society. There is no great slave class to rise in revolt against it.

"The other weakness in the old civilization," continued Mr. Steinmetz, "was the difficulty of communication. As long as those old city states remained within their own walls they got along very well, but the moment they extended their borders beyond these walls decay began to set in. The Roman empire for instance was necessarily ruled from Rome, but since there was no easy method of communication between Rome and its subject countries scattered all over central Europe and Africa, the government was done entirely by the people living at the capital. The situation was very much as though the United States of America today, was governed entirely by the citizens of Washington, D. C., or of any other one city. In such a case there is no guarantee that this relatively small group of people represents the best brains and highest minds of the country at large. In fact, exactly the opposite was the case in Rome. The citizens of this great city became degenerate, luxury loving and lustful. The government fell into the hands of the greedy, selfish and short sighted, who were called upon to shape the destiny of a great empire. The inevitable downfall of Rome resulted.

"Our modern newspapers, our telegraph systems, our telephone and our wireless, which make it possible for all the people of the United States, all the people of the world for that matter, to keep in touch with what is going on in any part of it, furnish ample insurance against a reversion to non-representative government. They make it possible for all people to be posted on public questions and to take an active part in the affairs of the government even though they may be many thousands of miles from our capital city.

"America is not as bad off, it would seem, as some degenerated reformers would have us believe."

British Women Ready to Fight for Rights

LONDON, Aug. 30.—That women have been deliberately hoaxed by men-lawmakers is the deepening suspicion of feminists leaders in England. So strong is the feeling that a deception representing the principal organizations of women throughout the country is to wait upon the home secretary to urge amendment of the sex disqualification removal act.

In the opening sentences of the act it is laid down that a person shall not be disqualified by sex or marriage from the exercise of any public function. It is now clear, say the feminists, that whenever it is challenged the act fails to secure sex equality. It chief effect has been to enable women to sit on juries which, rightly or wrongly, is regarded by most English people as a penalty rather than a privilege of equal citizenship. Further, women have been admitted as lawyers, but this is because the legal societies have accepted the spirit of the act and have not chosen to challenge its letter. Apart from these points, the act, according to its women critics, has signally failed in some vital particulars.

General John J. Pershing and many other notable and boys' heroes gave about three thousand boy scouts a day they will never forget when the National Council of Boy Scouts of America convened at Kanawha Lake on Bear Mountain, N. Y. Among those who addressed the scouts were Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, "Uncle Dan"
Beard, National Scout Commissioner;
Mortimer Schiff, financier; the

Governors of New York and New Jersey and a number of other men prominent in civic and business life.

In order to experience scout life at first hand more than two hundred men interested in the movement from all parts of the country spent a night in the tents. That they slept soundly is proved by the difficulty experienced in getting them up in the morning in time to attend the council meeting and by the strenuous run on the unmade ware wash basins in the tents. In one of the above photographs, Frank Presbrey, well-known author and advertising agent, is seen taking his turn.

The officers elected at the convention included: President Wa-ren G. Harding, Honorary President; Woodrow Wilson, Chief Justice William Howard Taft, Daniel Carter Beard and William G. Mc-Adoo, Honorary Vice Presidents.

DIFFERENT MODELS SHOWN AT THE PARIS SHOPPE

Style Without Extravagance Is Slogan of
New Apparel House

New clothing shops are daily opening in Glendale a city of fashionable women who desire a shop where they can be assured of attractive models that have the little touches which make them "different." The Paris Shoppe, 223 North Brand boulevard, one of the newest in Glendale, is offering the cleverest designs of high class New York manufacturers. It is no longer necessary to search unavailingly for the smartest chaparral to complete a long-planned costume, the new fall coat with original lines or a dinner gown for that "special occasion." The Paris Shoppe, making style without extravagance its motto, is ready to solve every woman's problem by carrying garments of individual attractiveness.
The select buyers pay special attention to the choice of each model.
Every gown has its personality that will lend grace to the awkward, attractiveness to those who are merely "pretty," and distinctive beauty to those who are blessed with genuine good looks. There is a suitable model for each type, fashioned in pleasing colors from the finest materials. And the range of prices is attractive.

In dinner dresses, there are pastel tullestas with hand-fashioned flowers, elaborately beaded geor-gettes, lace dinner dresses for younger or older women, chenille banded georgettes, and any number of other beautiful models. One lovely, girlish gown of shell pink georgette is given added brilliancy and style by rhinestone and heavy bead bandings.

The new winter coats are found in all the soft, plush-like fabrics,
Lorraine, Fanchon, Gloria, Ros-Delaine, Ormande and Geroni.
The collars and trimmings are of wolf, beaver, fox, squirrel, kolinsky, caracul and fitch, harmonizing with the grey, beige and brown tones.

Among the sweater models, the new sweater coats are the most popular and the Paris Shoppe has just received an extensive line of these snappy little wraps in the newest rose, green, blue, brown and tan color combinations.

The Paris Shoppe has a complete line of high-grade pattern hats, and fur neckpieces of stone marten, mink, squirrel and fox. The new pleated shirts, jackets, separate coats and vestees are in, all more charmingly designed than in previous seasons. The shopper will also find a complete line of hose and attractive underwear at the Paris Shoppe.

ECLIPSE DRAWS MANY TO SO. CALIF.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 30 (United Press).—Hundreds of automobile tourists who have been spending part of their vacation periods in the northwest, are traveling toward Southern California to view the eclipse of the sun, visible there September 10.

Reports from the local automobile camp are that scores of machines are leaving daily, their occupants perhaps having cancelled

other engagements in order to arrive in the southland in time to see the solar rarity.

"It is the opportunity that comes but once in a lifetime," one tourist said, expressing the sentiment of others. "I don't want to miss a sight as unusual and interesting as a total solar eclipse. The rest of the coast scenery can wait a few days."

It is a pity that we cannot reverse things and start at the top.
It would be so easy to reach the bottom.

Don't wrap ICE in Newspapers!

To get the greatest benefit from the ice in your refrigerator there must be a free circulation of air around it. You defeat this purpose when you wrap the ice in newspaper or sacks.

It is the constant circulation of cold air, from the ice chamber through the food compartments, that keeps your food pure, fresh and wholesome, and prevents germ growth.

Properly used, ice is a real economy in the saving of food, and the best health insurance you can have at all times of the year.

BEAVER POST HAS PLEASING SHOW

A wonderfully good, wholesome little entertainment which immensely pleased parents as well as the many children in the audience, was presented last night at Glendale high by Beaver Patrol, Troop No. 2, composed of John Torrey, leader; Bill Rhoades, Charles Wyman, Wilbur Booth, Kenneth Greenlaw, Ralph Doose, Jack Packard, Cecil Torrey, Arthur Barton, and Ben Robison, troop captain. The proceeds will finance a trip to Catalina.

The original part of the program was the very realistic scout play put on by these boys portraying a scout meeting and a scout camp. It was supplemented by moving pictures which were also exceptionally good. The first of these was a reel of beautiful and interesting scenes of boy scout activities in Switzerland. A Harold Lloyd comedy followed, and then came the main feature film of the evening, "Young America," in five reels. Each reel ended with a critical climax and as light went out a groan went up from the thrilled juveniles. It all came right in the end, however, misfortune's pursuit of the hero being cut off with a new deal all around. It deserved a full house.

Dishes that have become brown and burnt from constant baking may be easily cleaned after they have been steeped for a while in borax and water.

St. Louis Expects 70,000 to Witness Air Race

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30.—Preparation of St. Louis field for the international air races, to be held here Oct. 1, 2 and 3, is rapidly nearing completion. The work is in charge of Col. Albert T. Perkins and represents, virtually, the construction of a new field.

The site is the old Bridgeton field, formerly a commercial field but now the home of the Missouri National Guard air unit.

A unique ceremony was held last month by way of formally dedicating the field. Major Albert B. Lambert took aloft a 150-pound stone and dropped it, with a fair degree of accuracy, near where the first hangar is being built. Officials say this was the first corner stone ever laid by airplane.

FRANK MELINE COMPANY OPENS GLENDALE OFFICE AT NO. 227 SOUTH BRAND

To Conduct General Realty Business in the City With Highly Trained Staff of Expert Real Estate Men

The Frank Meline company announces the opening of a Branch office in Glendale, through which they will conduct a general realty brokerage business.

This brings the total number of general offices maintained by this firm in Southern California to fifteen. The new Glendale office is located at 227 South Brand boulevard, and is in charge of Arthur H. Voelker, who previously managed the Western avenue office for the Frank Meline company.

An organization of experienced realty specialists familiar with Southern California realty values and conditions, and more particularly, Glendale property, is being perfected and the firm announces that they are now prepared to serve their friends and clients in the Glendale district. They have, indeed, according to Mr. Voelker, who says that the Frank Meline company has reason to be pleased with the cordial reception their entry into Glendale has received. Two business property specialists, Messrs. Switzer and Caesar, are operating in this office.

The very considerable home building and business activity in and around Glendale is strongly indicative of the fact that the newcomers to Southern California have voluntarily drifted into that section, according to the Frank Meline company, who point out that Glendale has only recently engaged in a municipal advertising campaign.

Figures prepared by the Glendale chamber of commerce and other civic organizations indicate that Glendale is the fastest growing city in America.

The Frank Meline company is said to be one of the largest and most important realty organizations in the world, functioning in every branch of the real estate business. They expect their Glendale office to rapidly assume a position of outstanding prominence among their branches, due to the great activity in this section.

letic program to be staged during the American Legion's national convention in this city, October 15 to 19. J. Rufus Klawans, who saw service in Siberia as a "loose" in the 31st Infantry, during the world war, and who has been prominently identified with Pacific Coast athletic activities for many years past, is chairman of the subcommittee arranging the athletic program, which includes a championship basketball tourney.

Sacramento American Legion post, winners of the 1921 California state championship, and contenders for the world's title in 1922, when the Kansas City Athletic club came out winners, are sure entrants in the cage tourney; according to "Dixie" Lott, traveling guard of the famous Capitol City vets' crew. Entries are also expected from Los Angeles post, Golden Gate post No. 40 of San Francisco, Boston, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Denver and other Legion posts.

The basketball tourney will be played off in the brand new court of the Young Men's Institute here, now nearing completion. The court is said to be the fastest and most modern of any basketball cage in the west. Accommodations are available for 2,000 spectators.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—World war veterans of the 91st Division will greet with pleasure the announcement that Willie Ritchie, former world's champion lightweight boxer has consented to appear in an exhibition boxing match at the monster high jinks that is to be an important event on the Legionnaires' national convention program in San Francisco next October. Ritchie befriended all of the many thousands of men who received their war-time training at Camp Lewis, Washington, and is still in correspondence with many of them. Ritchie contemplated re-entering the boxing ring in the near future, and is counting on a trip east when he expects to secure a return "go" with Benny Leonard, the present champion.

Another former "champ" who has offered his services to Lieutenant-General Hunter Liggett, general chairman of the national convention committee, is Jimmie Britt, whose colors were lowered some years back, to "Batling" Nelson, the "durable Deane." Britt is a prosperous business man in this city, and has identified himself with all activities and entertainment programs for the disabled and wounded veterans.

Lieutenant Jack Casey, who will have charge of the monster high jinks program, when 25,000 Legionnaires will pass through the Civic Auditorium, Tuesday night, October 16, to witness twenty-five acts of the highest type of vaudeville, entertainment and athletics, has selected Jack Hayes, Bill "Fat" Larne, Urban F. Stewart and Altes Strong as vice-chairman of the high jinks committee.

Two Irishmen who had not met for years ran across each other. "Long time since we met, Clancy, isn't it? Great things have happened since then."

"Yes, indeed. Look at myself. Shure, it's married I am," replied Clancy.

"You don't tell me? Have you any family?" asked O'Grady.

"Faith and I have that. I've a fine healthy boy, and the neighbors say he's the picture of me."

O'Grady looked at Clancy, who wasn't built on the lines of a prize beauty.

"Ah, well, what the harm so long as the child's healthy?"

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

SOME WHYS AND WHEREFORES

"Why can't I have a big slice of bread and butter and jam?" asked Tommie Brown, who was recovering from a serious illness and was still white and wan—and exceedingly hungry.

"Because the doctor said some thin toast, dear," said his mother, patiently.

"But why?" demanded Tommie, eyeing the dainty tray with disfavor, and adding, "Just three tiny pieces like that? There isn't enough there to feed a canary."

"I know, dear, but the doctor said—"

"Oh, the doctor. He's a mean old thing. If he had been as sick as I have been and if he wanted a slice of bread and butter and strawberry jam as much as I do, I'd let him have it if I were the doctor!"

"Just try to eat this toast, dear," insisted his mother, gently, "and it won't be long till you will be having bread and jam. I have a jar of wild strawberry jam I am keeping for you, and you can have all you want just as soon as the doctor says you may."

"But must I eat toast?" Tommie repeated, as he crunched the thin toast half-heartedly, and made little dabs with his spoon at the beef broth in the cup his mother held.

Just then the doctor came in and the young rebel in bed looked up with a flash of resentment in his white face.

"If you just give me good reason why a fellow can't have bread and jam when he's been starved for a month—" he began without ceremony, for the doctor was his own cousin.

Whereupon the doctor sat down beside the bed and explained why toast is best as the first solid food for an invalid.

"Ordinary wheat bread starch is the principal part of it."

"When we subject starch to a high degree of heat, it is changed into an easily digestible substance called dextrin."

"In ordinary cooking the outer layer of a loaf of bread is browned and turned into crust by the heat. This is really dextrin, and it has a sweetish taste. Slices of toast bread undergo the same change. "We do not toast bread simply to brown it, but to take out all the moisture possible, that it may be the more thoroughly mixed with the saliva in eating, and so more easily digested."

"Tommie, listening, ate the last crumb of toast meditatively. "Well, that sounds like a man's reason," he said, with the grown-up air that always amused his mother. "If you had told me at first I wouldn't have raised such a rumpus about eating toast. And when can I have some strawberry jam?"

"This very day," promised the doctor, "but it won't be visible to the naked eye. When you have your next glass of milk."

"I'm off milk," protested Tommie. "I hate it. I've swallowed pills of it since I've been sick."

"When you have your next glass of milk," persisted the doctor, "your mother can put a spoonful of strawberry jam in it, put it in a cocktail shaker, and shake it up briskly. Then strain it, shake it up again, and give it to you as a strawberry milk shake. How does that sound?"

And Tommie, slightly pacified, admitted that it would be better than no jam at all.

BUSINESS READJUSTMENT PROGRESSING, SAYS BABSON

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Aug. 31, 1923.—Roger W. Babson today gives his monthly review of general business conditions. Mr. Babson is not bullish on the immediate outlook believing rather that we have begun in earnest to complete the period of readjustment which was started in 1919. He insists, however, that this completion will clear the decks for real prosperity in the future. His statement is as follows:

"Business is beginning to feel the shock of President Harding's death which so stunned the American people. Although there is consolation in the fact that his successor, Calvin Coolidge, has had great administrative experience, yet a shifting from one President to another must break many connections and change many plans. The first people to feel the results of this change are the retailers. Retail sales fell off immediately following President Harding's death and have not yet resumed. Hence, wholesale buying is only on a moderate scale. Buyers are not inclined to purchase beyond their immediate needs. The people are also awaiting the size of crops and the prices of agricultural products.

"The best immediate business opportunities are believed to be in the south. Although current cotton reports are somewhat disappointing, yet the good prices promised should make the south prosperous during the next 12 months. Given the right kind of weather for the balance of the season and current prices, the south will add greatly to its wealth and purchasing power. The northwest, however, is handicapped by the European farmers who are raising more grain every year, which naturally reduces our exports of cereals. Wheat prices have shown no material change recently, but corn prices are softening, although this softening is only natural as the new corn crop approaches maturity.

"Iron, steel, petroleum, copper, wool and certain other basic commodities are declining in price, but this is not an unhealthy sign. The great difference in the level of farm products and manufactured goods must be eliminated sooner or later. The price of agricultural products must come up and the price of manufactured goods must come down. Therefore the present readjustment movement is healthy and good for all of us in the long run. This readjustment will be accomplished by a reduction in the prices of raw material, an increase in the efficiency of labor, and a reduction in overhead and selling expenses.

"The unemployment which is threatening certain industries on account of foreign competition, should make labor more reasonable. On the other hand, indications are that the wage earners in those monopolies such as transportation, coal, etc., are still greatly tempted to make trouble. Certain of the railroad unions are about to make drastic demands for wage increases, restoring wages to what they were at the peak following the war and prior to the cut July 1, 1921. Considering that the dollar of 1913 is now about 67 cents compared with only 40 cents in May, 1920 and only about 50 cents in the spring of 1921, these demands on the part of labor for a restoration of war time wages seem very unjust.

"Bank clearings have definitely turned the corner and are declining; mail order sales may have again apparently reached a maximum; the demand for iron and steel is slackening. Crude oil is piling up in Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. People scramble to buy on advancing markets, but refuse to buy on declining markets. As the result, the decline in prices may now go as much below normal as the previous advance went above normal. This is unfortunate; but being accordance with the law of action and reaction, it is inevitable. This further explains the current decrease in retail buying and consequent falling off in the orders of manufacturers and jobbers. When we are in a bear market prices always decline to abnormally low figures irrespective of merit or the cost of production.

"However, these are optimistic signs if studied with the long pull in view—although they naturally affect the Babsonchart Index, which is today 10 per cent below normal. There is no doubt that business when it in 1920 and 1921 did not properly liquidate—it got out of bed too soon. We must now rest again and be willing to convalesce slowly. Therefore, things are now traveling in the right direction—notwithstanding current pessimism—and when prosperity finally comes, it will be much more healthy and last longer than it otherwise would."

JOBBER PROTEST NEW PARKING LAW IN GLENDALE

Members and Employees Arrested Delivering Goods to Stores

Another strong protest has come to the Glendale chamber of commerce relative to the parking ordinance of Glendale. This time it is the jobbers' association of Los Angeles that registers a complaint because of the arrest of its members' employees for double line parking while delivering goods to customers. The association recommends a parking zone similar to that in force in Los Angeles in front of stores that have no rear entrances.

At the last meeting of the chamber directors this matter came up and a special committee was appointed to look into it. That committee will probably make recommendations at the next meeting.

"Did you say that Mrs. Upton was giving this ball to celebrate her wedding anniversary?" asked Mae. "I don't see how that can be," Mrs. Upton—

"I know, dear," answered Louise, "but this is to celebrate one of her previous weddings."

Stunts at West Man Heights Sunday p. m.

Potter & Smith, Hosts at West Man Heights
Over Week End

Encouraged by the success of their recent barbecue and entertainment at Wagner Heights, Potter & Smith are planning a similar celebration, starting Saturday noon and ending Monday night, at their West Man Heights subdivision on Manchester avenue. It is believed by the managers of this company that this will be one of the most elaborate affairs ever promoted by the owners of a subdivision in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

The outstanding features of this big celebration will be the barbecue beginning at noon Monday, the band concert, thrilling aerial stunts, the giving away of a free homesite and the distribution of cash and other gifts. It is announced that registration for the free lot may be made any time after noon, Saturday. It is required that the person to whom the gift is to be made be present in person. In addition to the free lots and various other awards, the company is planning on the distribution of certificates which entitles the bearer to $100.00 if used toward the purchase of a lot.

The barbecue is expected to attract thousands of people as it is being prepared by Jose Romero, one of the most noted barbecue chefs in the country. It will begin promptly at noon Monday and continue until every visitor has been fed. The aerial stunts will be given by Miss Gladys Roy on Sunday afternoon. Miss Roy, it will be remembered, is the daring young aviator who broke the world's record for a woman parachute drop two weeks ago. She is considered one of the most daring woman performers in the world. There is no doubt but what Miss Roy will furnish the crowd with plenty of thrills.

West Man Heights is a subdivision of 240 acres, located on a scenic elevation overlooking the city of Los Angeles and fronting on Manchester avenue. It is one of the four subdivisions on this thoroughfare being sold by Potter & Smith. The others are Wagner Heights, City View Heights and Mertens Heights. West Man Heights is laid out and restricted as a high-class residential subdivision. It is near the heart of the business district of Los Angeles and affords a wonderful opportunity to purchase an ideal homesite near the city.

Magnus Johnson Joins Shipstead in Senate as Farmer-Labor Member

Johnson, a "real dirt" farmer, of Kimball, defeated Governor J. A. O. Preus, republican, by more than 50,000 votes in the special Minnesota election to fill the post vacated by the recent death of Senator Knute Nelson. James A. Carley, democrat, trailed a poor third. Both Johnson and Henrik Shipstead, who was elected last fall in Minnesota over Frank B. Kellogg, republican, have announced their intention to affiliate with the "followers" of Robert M. La Follette.

3 BIG DAYS 3

FREE BARBECUE ON LABOR DAY

Jose Romero, the noted barbecue chef, will treat the public to one of his famous delicious open-air meals, beginning at noon. People travel hundreds of miles to taste meat he has prepared. This will be free.

at WEST-MAN HEIGHTS

Celebration Starting Saturday Noon, Continues All Day
Sunday and All of Labor Day

Entertainment

Free band concerts at this tract starting on Saturday afternoon will be continued Sunday from 10:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and likewise on Monday. They are by the Hollywood American Legion Band.

THRILLING AIR
STUNTS by Gladys Roy, the noted aviator, will be a feature of Sunday afternoon's events.

Your Opportunity

for profitable investment can be made at WEST-MAN Heights. This is because it is one of the most promising homesite tracts in California. Words cannot describe its scenic location and its favored situation between the heart of the city and the harbor.

Valuable Gifts

One highly restricted homesite in West-Man Heights will be given away free on Monday afternoon. Registration for it may be made Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday and Monday.

The gifts to be distributed during the three days will have a total value of upwards of $10,000. See our representatives for details.

HOW TO GET TO THE TRACT

BY STREET CAR—Any yellow car and transfer to Hoover St. car marked "F" and go to our branch office at 8519 Vermont Ave., where our representatives will meet you.

ALL OUT FOR CATALINA AND THE ECLIPSE
 Los Angeles Steamship Co. Prepared for Big Pageant Crowd
 For the benefit of those who wish to see the eclipse of the sun in its full totality on September 10, as well as to enjoy the special fete and pageant which is to be staged in an elaborate manner with 500 performers at Coronado on the same day, Ralph J. Chandler, general manager of the Los Angeles Steamship company, announces two special eclipse excursions to be made by the coastwise liner Yale.
 This vessel will leave Los Angeles harbor at 3 p. m. Sunday, September 9, arriving at San Diego at 8 p. m. Then on Monday morning, the day of the eclipse and a state holiday, the vessel will leave her berth at the municipal pier, San Diego, at 10 o'clock on a special trip to be made directly in the line of the total shadow from a point at sea some miles off the coast, and then south around the group of three islands known as the Coronados, lying off the coast of old Mexico. Capt. Self, master of the Yale, will hold the ship as nearly as possible in the center of the densest shadow during the full period of the eclipse, and this over, will cruise off the Mexican coast, returning to San Diego at 5 p. m., enabling the excursionists to attend the madrigal at Coronado that night.
 The Yale will leave for Los Angeles at 9 o'clock the following morning. Since in addition to the above excursions there will be the regular sailings of the Yale and Harvard to San Diego Thursday and Saturday afternoons, full provision is being made for the transportation of those who wish to spend a few days in the southern port over the holiday, as well as for those who cannot get away until the day before the total eclipse, which scientists declare will not occur again in this part of the world until the year 2045.

NEITHER PEACE NOR WAR TRUE OF RUSSIA
 So Says Relief Worker Returning From the Soviet Domain
 "Neither peace nor war."
 Scrawled in Leon Trotsky's own hand on the wall of the room within the fortifications of Brest-Litovsk, where the treaty between the Russians and Germans was signed in 1916, this inscription has been prophetically descriptive of the conditions under which life has been carried on since that time in the regions that were formerly the Polish provinces of Russia, according to Miss Amy Pryor Tapping, American Relief Administration worker, who has just returned to this country.
 Starvation has been the most constant factor of the situation in Poland from the outbreak of hostilities up to the most recent months. The great German drive of 1915 pushed back into Russia, ahead of the German armies, a million and a half refugees who were locked up in Russia until the treaty of Riga between Poland and Russia in 1921. When the tide began to flow back, Poland was confronted with the greatest re-immigration problem the world has ever seen. Among the returning exiles were children so barely fed that they had never known sugar, and rejected cocoa, when it was given them at American feeding stations in Poland, because the sweet taste was unfamiliar to them.
 Miss Tapping, as director of the Polish Gray Samaritans, was in charge of the work of thirty Polish-American girls sent abroad by the International Institute of the Y. W. C. A. to do relief work in Poland. These girls supervised the feeding of children which was being carried on by the American Relief Administration through the Polish communities, each of the districts to which they were assigned including about 200,000 children. These agencies were feeding, at the peak of the operations, 1,500,000 children in all. Aid was also given to orphanages established in these districts for the care of homeless children.
 The work of the feeding stations has now been taken over by the Polish government, and all of these volunteers have returned to America. A number of them, because of their experiences and the interest which this work in Europe has awakened in them, are preparing to equip themselves through training in American schools in various parts of the country for professional work in the care of children. Miss Tapping is about to assume extended duties in this field in work with American children. She has joined the field staff of the American Child Health association, a national organization working for the improvement of methods of teaching health to children of all ages in this country.

Foley's Friendly Fancies
CREED
 Now whence I came I know not,
 Nor ask why it is so,
 And where I go when tasks are done
 I do not ask to know.
 I know the sun is shining,
 The sky is bright and blue,
 Nor shall I be repining
 When there is work to do.
 I know the world has beauty,
 In living there is zest,
 Life has its post of duty,
 So let me do my best.
 To rise at dawn or near it,
 The day's high faith to keep,
 To laugh and work with spirit,
 And then the time for sleep.
 To do the work before me,
 As it becomes a man,
 To thank the God who's o'er me
 For that I will and can.
 To cheer when there is sorrow,
 To help when there is need,
 To dread nor fear tomorrow,
 This be my faith and creed.
 To take my part, nor fear it,
 In the eternal plan;
 With strong, abiding spirit
 To do the thing I can.
 To find the light and bring it
 Where the long way be dim,
 To know the song and sing it,
 And leave the rest with him.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES
 Fred H. Anderson, the popular Montrose realtor, purchased a ten acre tract on Honolulu and New York avenues which is just west of Honolulu Acres, and will be an extension of that tract. This acreage will be cleared immediately, streets graded to county requirements and divided into 60 lots. Mr. Anderson's Honolulu Acres tract of 260 lots, placed on the market recently, is entirely sold out.
 Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McDowell and son Oswald McDowell, left Monday for a motor trip through Northern California.
 Mrs. Lynwood Thlinghaast of East Prospect avenue left last week for an extended visit in the east.
 Mr. and Mrs. C. Everts returned to their home in Escondido, Monday, after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bennett of South Los Angeles avenue.
 Miss Della Bastable returned yesterday from a visit to Chicago and Duluth, Minn.
 Dorothy Ann Bissell is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. D. A. McKee of Pasadena for this week.
 Mrs. J. W. Singleton of West Honolulu avenue, left recently for Seattle, where she will be the guest of her mother for a month.
